

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Your Personal, Automated Blog Reporter

CHICAGO, Ill. - May 29, 2007 (SEND2PRESS NEWSWIRE) -- Free Auto Blogger, a new software application from Advanced Interactive Marketing, allows bloggers to quickly and easily build power blogs on any subject. If you've always wanted your own personal reporter to filter and post relevant news stories on your blog, Advanced Interactive Marketing's Free Auto Blogger is your software dream come true.

"Many people who want to build a blog of fresh content just do not have the time or resources to do so," says Larry Brunken, co-founder of Advanced Interactive Marketing. "With Free Auto Blogger, you can set loose an automated blogger bot that can build content-related posts into your blog automatically every few minutes."

Free Auto Blogger (available online at www.freeautoblogger.com) is a free software package that allows bloggers to quickly load their favorite RSS, XML and podcast feeds into the program. These can then be posted on the chosen blog as content, linked to author, along with a blogger's own post.

The resulting blogs look professional and clean, using the included set of templates. The professional, paid version of the software allows users to take advantage of a full-fledged advertising system, by posting links, banners, text and more throughout the blog, like any seasoned advertiser.

"We have used this system for years with our clients, giving them incredible content and traffic results," says Brunken. "Now we offer the same software to the public in a desktop version, which anyone can use to build a top-ranking blog."
